

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A user terminal transmits failure information about a connected printer to a management server. The management server calculates the repair fee estimate of the equipment on the basis of the transmitted failure information. Estimate information including the calculated repair fee estimate is then transmitted to the user terminal.